State of Alabama's CDBG-DR HRAP Program: Adverse Effect Dallas County

On behalf of the State of Alabama, the Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs (ADECA) is hosting a Public Meeting to discuss the demolition and reconstruction of the historic home located at 213 Furniss Ave., Selma, AL. Due to the extent of the damage and Program Project Type Caps, the home has been determined as a Reconstruction Project as opposed to a Rehabilitation Project. ADECA and the Alabama Historic Commission have confirmed that the Reconstruction will have an adverse effect on the historic district in which the home sits. Mitigation measures suggested by ADECA are as follows: 1) State-level documentation on building survey form, 2) Submit design and site plans for review and approval once ready, 3) If ground disturbance extends beyond the footprint of existing structures (house, driveway, outbuildings, sidewalk), then a Phase 1 archaeological survey must be completed.

As required, ADECA will host a public meeting to discuss the project and mitigation measures. Public meeting details are listed below:
